American Bar President Shuns Probe Role Churchill, Cabinet In Huddle Over Worsening Suez Dispute

Egypt Rejects British Claim On Slayings

By Tom Ochiltree

London (AP) — Britain told Egypt yesterday that if the Egyptians want the Suez Canal zone talks resumed they will have to stop sniping and ambushing British troops there. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said four British soldiers have been killed and several others wounded the last few days.

Egypt just as bluntly rejected Britain's representations about the attacks. A Cairo official said the mere presence of British forces in the zone "constitutes an aggression against Egypt."

Egypt wants the British to remove 80,000 soldiers from the zone. The British say their removal would endanger the security of the canal.

The worsening British-Egyptian relations brought a surprise Cabinet meeting last night. Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill called in his top military advisers to the meeting two hours after Eden spelled out the new warning to Egyptian authorities in the House of Commons.

All Cabinet discussions remain secret pending announcements in Commons. But it was clearly understood in the lobby before the ministers filed into the meeting that the prime minister called them together to consider the pressing Suez problem.

Eden told the House of Commons that four British servicemen have been killed and several others wounded in a series of attacks by Egyptian guerrillas in the Suez area the last few days. He said two other British soldiers have disappeared.

Eden said conditions in the canal zone deteriorated "very seriously" in the last week.

Egyptian authorities were told that "in the present conditions—which are due to their failure to take the necessary steps to maintain order—a resumption of discussions is not possible."

Britain provisionally agreed to withdraw her 80,000-man garrison if she is given specific right of re-entry under certain circumstances and if a caretaker force of British technicians keep the base in good order.

Last week Egypt put out a feeler through Jefferson Caffery, the U. S. ambassador in Cairo, on prospects of resuming talks about the canal.

On Eden's instructions, Ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson handed Britain's representations to President Mohamed Naguib last Friday.

Egypt's prompt rejection, the Cairo official said, referred to "organized aggression of British forces against Egyptian civilians in the canal zone." Egypt also contended that the current disorders followed the shooting of an Egyptian police officer by British soldiers March 11. Egyptian civilians in the Suez area have acted "in several instances in self defense," the Egyptians said.

Scandal, Communism, Plus Trieste Dim Chances Of Italian Approval Of EDC

Rome (AP) — Scandal, Communism and a revival of the Trieste issue yesterday dimmed prospects for rapid ratification of the European Defense Community treaty by Italy.

Creation of EDC—the major objective of the current U. S. foreign policy toward Europe—already is snarled by the French-German dispute over the Saar. The French Assembly has made a settlement of the quarrel a condition of ratification.

Only Belgium and the Netherlands have completed ratification among the six nations which would participate in the single-uniformed European army. Luxembourg is in the process of doing so. The German Parliament has passed it but constitutional issues have delayed it becoming law.

Optimism that EDC would clear all parliamentary hurdles quickly is fading.

The latest blow came yesterday in Rome.

Premier Mario Scelba, whose new government previously planned to push EDC through quickly, hinted at a luncheon of foreign correspondents that a settlement of the Trieste question favorable to Italy would ease the treaty's road. Yugoslavia disputes Italy's rights to the Trieste area.

14,500 Persons Might Die If H-Bomb Hit Near Capitol

Washington (AP) — If an enemy plane sneaked through defenses and exploded a hydrogen bomb next to the White House, 14,500 persons might be killed and 37,500 more injured out of a population of 84,000 in a suburban school district five to 12 miles away.

The estimate was made by the operations research office of the Johns Hopkins University. It collaborated with the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School and its Parent-Teachers Assn. to make a full-scale study and disaster plan intended as a "prototype and model" for communities anywhere.

The result, published yesterday, is a 136-page book that goes into such minute details as the monthly maintenance costs of various warning systems that might be installed in the school buildings and advice to mothers on improvising diapers during a period when clothes washing might be impossible.

Among the illustrations are photographs of the school itself and of representative scenes in the district, each coupled with an artist's conception, based on data from the research office, of how the same scene would look after the thermonuclear blast.

And the book, frankly designed to shock citizens into action, begins with the words, "In Bethesda, we live for the first time in 140 years in mortal danger from a foreign enemy . . . A Soviet attack on Washington teeters on the brink of happening, because—as with an oily rag left with combustible material in a basement—the conditions are ripe for disaster."

The Bethesda-Chevy Chase area of Maryland is immediately north-west of Washington—which was taken by the British in the War of 1812. The report by the research office, a civilian scientific agency under contract to the Army, considered the effect of attacks at different times and with different degrees of surprise.

The maximum casualty figure was estimated for a surprise night attack. A bombing without warning in the daytime might cause fewer total casualties.

Longshoremen Heckle Wagner

New York (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner toured New York's strikebound waterfront yesterday, but its faint hum of activity was drowned out by pickets' jeers.

"You are a Republican mayor," hooted wildcat strikers of the old International Longshoremen's Association, Ind. Wagner is a lifelong Democrat.

Unemployment Relatively Low

Washington (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told Congress yesterday he would consider four million unemployed a "relatively low figure" and that he is "not looking for any sudden turn" in the general economic situation.

The latest government report showed unemployment in February was slightly over 3,600,000.

Countries Built Gold Reserves

Washington (AP) — U. S. foreign aid hit a record high of over six and one-fourth billion dollars last year, enabling foreign countries to pay their trade debts and tuck two and one-fourth billions into their gold and dollars savings, the Department of Commerce said yesterday.

Foreign countries were able to build up their gold and dollar reserves even though they received about two and one-fourth billion dollars less than they spent in commercial transactions with the United States in 1953.

Foreign reserves outside the Iron Curtain reached an all time high of 23 billion dollars in readily available gold and U. S. and Canadian dollars at the end of 1953, the Commerce Department reported.

But to what extent other countries were approaching the point where they could get along without U. S. aid was still uncertain, the department's report on the balance of payments for 1953 indicated. This despite the big addition to gold and dollar reserves abroad.

The picture was clouded by the fact that foreign countries get two direct types of aid from the United States, plus another big injection of dollars which might or might not be considered aid.

Allies getting direct military help in the form of equipment made in this country received $4,300,000 worth of such equipment in 1953.

Additionally, friendly countries received approximately two billion dollars worth of nonmilitary governmental aid. That made a direct aid total of $6,300,000,000. The highest previous total was six billion in 1949.

But in addition, U. S. forces abroad spent for everything from drinks in cabarets to air bases some $2,300,000,000, and bought 300 million dollars worth of military goods made abroad and given to Allied armed forces.

That made an additional flow of $2,600,000,000 to friendly foreign nations, outside commercial channels, which was not directly in the aid category because Americans got goods or services for almost all of it.

Politicians Friendly Sometimes

Philadelphia (AP) — The national chairmen of the country's two major parties met here yesterday, shook hands and tried hard not to get into an argument.

"Hello, Steve," said Republican Leonard W. Hall.

"Hi, Len," smiled Democrat Stephen A. Mitchell.

Then they sat down at a table in a hastily-called press conference at a hotel (Bellevue-Stratford) and talked with reporters.

Banker Jailed On Eve Of Settlement

Clio, Ala. (AP) — Banker Royall Reynolds was jailed on embezzlement charges yesterday on the eve of an accounting of $167,000 his depositors claim he owes them.

Jailer B. Bowden said the 40-year-old Reynolds surrendered to Barbour County officials and is in the county jail at Clayton 15 miles north of here.

The Sunday school teacher and former Clio mayor had been free under $7,500 bond since his return last Thursday from a mysterious 12-day absence.

Gunner Hurdled From Blister

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) — An Air Force gunner was hurled into the Gulf of Mexico yesterday when the plastic "blister" of a B29 broke loose and sucked the man out of the plane.

The missing airman was identified as S. Sgt. Claude J. Trahan, 28, of Burlington, Vt. His wife, Lola, lives at Schertz, Tex., near Randolph.

Automatic Gear Shift For Shoes

By Alton L. Blakeslee

Air Force Research
Cleveland (AP) — Shoes equipped with a kind of automatic gear shift are one way to give us happier feet, two bone specialists suggested yesterday.

The idea is to put into shoes movable joints which will automatically adjust to the shifting of bone and muscle "gears" when we walk or stand.

From a scientific study of feet and shoes, this is one of several changes proposed by Drs. Harry C. Stein and I. E. Fixel, orthopedic surgeons of New York City.

They find eight major defects in the engineering of conventional shoes and propose the changes "to make our feet the boss of our shoes, instead of our shoes bossing our feet."

They described their study in an exhibit before the American Academy of General Practice meeting here.

"We're becoming a nation of foot cripples with aching feet, bunions and other troubles largely because our shoes aren't best engineered for our feet," they said.

When we stand, we use one set of bone gears, the exhibit explains. When we walk, we switch to a different set of gears or set of bones and muscles.

Shoes having a rigid shank or sole don't permit an easy switch of gears, Drs. Stein and Fixel hold. So joints were designed in the shank reinforcement which permit the shoe to follow the natural gear action of walking.

Lenten Meditation

"Living the Christian Life." Luke 6:46. (Why call ye Me, Lord, and do not the things which I say).

Christ expects a balanced life from His followers. Anything else would be colored with hypocrisy.

To call Christ Lord, and not to obey His Lordship over our lives would be a contradiction of facts and our witnessing for Christ and His cause could not bear fruit.

Lent is a time of self-examination for all Christians and should lead to the secret place of prayer, there to receive divine strength and heavenly guidance for the future.

Our Lord expects the fruits of self-sacrifice from those who call Him, Lord, Lord.

A Christian life is a paying life. Christ said: "He that cometh after Me, let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow Me."

This we do by prayer and obedience to His will, and this we do most heartily.

Six Candidates Remain In Race For Governor As Withdrawal Deadline

Harrisburg (AP) — Peter Elish, Washington County controller, withdrew yesterday for the Democratic nomination for secretary of internal affairs, leaving the field alone to the organization-backed candidate, Miss Genevieve Blatt, Pittsburgh.

The deadline for withdrawals expired with six candidates: three Republicans and three Democrats—left in the race for governor.

Bradford Says French To Win

Washington (AP) — Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, hinted at possibly greater U. S. air aid to France's Communist-beset forces in Indochina yesterday.

Despite the reported gravity of the French position at Dien Bien Phu, Adm. Radford told newsmen confidently that "the French are going to win" the battle there.

Radford also reiterated that the contingent of U. S. Air Force technicians now in Indochina will be withdrawn in June according to plan. By that time, he said, the French will have trained their own technicians to replace the Americans.

He also commented that if more planes are sent, he does not believe it will be necessary to send additional American air technicians to Indochina to keep them in flying operation.

At Hanol, Indochina, Brig. Gen. Jean Dechaux said if more U. S. aircraft are sent now, it would be necessary to send service crews along to maintain them because the French are short of that type of personnel.

Dechaux commands French air operations in the current bitter battle against Communist-led Viet-minh forces besieging the French bastion of Dien Bien Phu. More than 300 U. S. Air Force technicians and civilian transport pilots are now aiding the French in servicing planes or delivering supplies in Indochina.

Bandits Rob Sharon Bank In 15 Minutes

S Sharon, Pa. (AP) — Two gun-toting bandits dressed in dark jackets systematically robbed the First National Bank of nearby West Middlesex, Pa., of an undetermined amount of cash yesterday after locking the bank's cashier and six other persons in a vault.

The bandits, described as between 30 and 35 entered the bank shortly before 10 a. m. and brandished revolvers. One of them yelled:

"This is a stickup. Take it easy and nobody will get hurt."

They herded the bank's cashier, Ernest Klinger, three women bookkeepers and three depositors into a storage vault, slammed the door and barricaded it with heavy office machines and equipment.

In less than 15 minutes, the bandits cleaned out the teller's cages and left the bank unnoticed.

McCarthy Feud Matter Too Controversial

By Wilnot Hercher

Washington (AP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said last night the president of the American Bar Association has turned down a request to act as special counsel in the investigation of the sizzling fight between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and the Army.

Mundt disclosed that ABA President William J. Jameson of Billings, Mont., had been asked to take the job as "a public service."

He said Jameson had consulted with members of the bar association's Board of Directors and reported it was his opinion that "it would not be appropriate" for the ABA president to assume the role of chief counsel or maybe "adjudicator" of such a controversial matter.

Mundt added that the ABA board members felt that no matter what decision is made by the Senate investigations subcommittee, which plans to conduct the probe, "many Americans are pretty likely to disagree."

In another development, Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) said McCarthy's proposal to have all witnesses in the inquiry take lie detector tests was "a lot of poppycock." Potter expressed his views in a radio interview MBS' "Reporters round-up."

Both Potter and Mundt are members of the subcommittee. McCarthy is chairman, but he has yielded the gavel to Mundt for the duration of the inquiry.

Up until last night, the identity of the man the senators wanted to sort out the welter of charges and countercharges between McCarthy and top Army officials had been a closely kept secret.

All that was known was that Mundt and Sen. McClellan of Arkansas, senior Democrat on the subcommittee, had agreed to approach a "nationally prominent attorney." Mundt said he and McClellan talked with this attorney by telephone Saturday and that his initial reaction was:

"This is a terrible thing to happen to me. Don't bother me with this."

The lawyer's identity was made known, Mundt said, only after some reporters had guessed that the services of the ABA president were being sought.

Mundt told a news conference the subcommittee will meet today at 11:15 a.m. EST to consider other candidates for the job, including some suggested by Jameson. Whoever is finally selected, he said, "need not consider himself a second choice, since there is only one American bar president."

To be probed are:

1. The Army's charges that McCarthy and Roy Cohn, chief subcommittee counsel, exerted pressure to get favored treatment for draftee G. David Schine, a former nonaligned member of the subcommittee staff.

2. Countercharges that the Army was holding Schine in "hostage" while it tried to divert McCarthy's investigation of alleged "communist coddling" in the Army to other branches of the military service.

Meanwhile, McCarthy demanded to know why the Justice Department has "pigronbuled" a case of alleged espionage against a newspaperman whom he did not identify.

Aftly Gen. Brownell told McCarthy he had not heard of the case before today, but he said he would examine the Justice Department's files and report to him today.

The Wisconsin senator did not mention any names. In April, 1951, McCarthy said in a Senate speech that Justice Department attorneys had advised the FBI they had "a complete, airtight case of violation of the espionage act" against Drew Pearson, a Washington columnist.

There is no record of charges ever having been brought against Pearson.

First Half Red Cross Drive Lags

With only nine more days in March, which is Red Cross Month in the Campaign for Members and Funds, the Monroe County chapter could report less than half of its quota in to date. With a quota of $13,300, contributions now total only $5,700, it was reported yesterday by J. Richard Altomare, chairman of the 1954 campaign.

Mr. Altomare urged the captains in all districts to report promptly the amounts handed in by the workers in their district, and to urge the workers to renewed effort this week.

The Monroe County Chapter maintains an active program in the county in serving the armed forces and veterans through home service; in providing blood for local and defense needs through its blood program; in helping victims of disaster; in conducting classes in home nursing and first aid in its volunteer program which last year found 166 volunteers giving 8,835 hours of volunteer service; and its water safety program.

All of these services are based on the Red Cross theme of "people helping people" through voluntary services and money, and the local program depends on local support.

In addition a share of the local donations are sent to National Red Cross to be used in major disasters, in the national blood program, and in aiding the military both in this country and overseas.

"Monroe County has never yet failed in its Red Cross commitments," Altomare said, "and I feel sure that the present lag in receipts is not due to any unwillingness of the people to give. Time however is running out, and I urge all workers to complete their districts early this week. If possible so that we can report a successful drive before Red Cross Month is over."

Thirteen Suggestions, All Involving Added Revenues, Urged For East Boro Improvements

Thirteen suggestions for improvements of East Stroudsburg were made to Exchange Club members last night in a report on "city government."

The report dealt with general items—sewers, schools, taxes, law enforcement, promotion work.

Recommendations were of a general nature, rather than specific. Committee chairman Carl A. Nauman said he, Clifford Lambert, Don Summa and Paul Berner had spent two months interviewing "hundreds of people in all walks of life" to get a round-up of opinions on what was needed to better the borough.

These were some of the points made:

A new high school and a sanitary sewer system are needed, but borough finances must be in better shape before they can be built.

To get finances in shape, a revised assessment system is needed. This will be brought about by the county's new assessment program, now being put together.

Assessed value of the borough 29 years ago was $4 million said Nauman. Last year it was about $3,800,000. Breakdown of a "typical $129 tax bill shows $16 goes to the county, $6 to the Institution District, $33 to the borough and $74 to support borough schools."

Water should be metered in commercial buildings.

There should be regular fire inspections of borough buildings, possibly by a borough employee. Reports should show fire hazards, and what buildings, if any, should be condemned.

Landlords should be required by ordinance to report when a new tenant moves in. This would make for easier collection of taxes by the borough. Nauman said there were 400 uncollectible accounts in "one year" because the residents had moved and couldn't be traced.

There should be a 10 p. m. curfew for borough youngsters 12 or 14 years old.

Young drivers should be prevented from speeding on N. Courtland St.

Police salaries should be placed on a merit basis; more "diplomacy" should be shown by police, especially to strangers, though general improvement in the force has been noted.

Comfort stations should be built in the business section.

The borough needs street signs and Route markers at main intersections.

A municipal band or orchestra should be established, subsidized by the borough.

There should be a more diversified playground and park program, with emphasis expanded to include activities other than swimming; more protection against winter-time vandalism should be provided.

Residents of a given street should band together to petition for improvement. More street repairs and curb and gutter work are needed.

There should be a board of trade, similar to a chamber of commerce, to promote East Stroudsburg.

There should also be two groups set up, one to handle civic planning, the other to "scrutinize" local government actions and analyze budget appropriations." Nauman said he was told both groups will be established.

The committee also reported need of a large department store, restaurant and hotel in the borough.

There should be a board of trade, similar to a chamber of commerce, to promote East Stroudsburg.

Description Forms Ordered

Twenty thousand property description forms will be purchased for the new assessment system shortly.

The forms contain several dozen questions relating to the location, value, type, size of real estate and buildings in the county's 29 assessment districts.

The forms will be filled out and will become a part of the permanent file. Use of the forms will aid in establishing the value of the property for tax purposes.

The contract for the forms went to the Sun Printery, East Stroudsburg. Their quotation of $248 was the lowest of four received.

Opening date of the lake for fishing to only licensed members of the club will be May 1. Philip Menecola, chairman, presided.

Clerks Purge 673 Names Off Registration

Clerks started polling 673 registration cards out of the courthouse yesterday.

They belong to people who haven't cast a vote for two years, and who haven't reinstated their registration.

Deadline for doing this was yesterday.

Originally there were 785 electors in this category. Reinstatement forms were mailed to all of them. Only 112 were returned.

Some deadlines which are still coming up are:

Monday—last day to file a change of address before primary election can be completed at courthouse, or filled out later and mailed in.

Saturday—last day for registering to vote in the May 18 primary. People in this class include those who have never registered; those who haven't voted for two years and haven't reinstated their registration; and those whose registration expired years ago and who never re-registered.

Clerks said that women who skip after they are registered should register again in their married names, in order to avoid possible challenges by officials at the polling house on election day.

In event of a challenge, it would be necessary to furnish satisfactory proofs, affidavits and other papers to establish identity before being allowed to vote.

Monroe Signs Agreement For Free Surplus Foods; Will Use At County Home

Monroe County home will receive free surplus food from the U. S. Department of Agriculture this year.

How much food, or what commodities has not yet been determined said Chief Clerk Harry Taylor yesterday. That question will be resolved at a conference at the distribution center for this district—located at Clarks Summit State Hospital.

The agreement was signed by the county Institution District.

The agreement is that the surplus foods are to be used solely for the benefit of the 55 people living at the county home.

Records of the food received, the amount used and the amount on hand must be maintained and are subject to audit, said Taylor.

The man in charge of the distribution center is Russell W. Armstrong, business manager.

There are 32 commodities available in the government's surplus stocks. Included are such perishables as smoked pork products, shell eggs, frozen beef and turkeys, and creamery butter.

The forms were filled out and put in the mail last Thursday night, said Taylor. They were processed, approved, and back in the commission's office by yesterday morning.

The form, which goes through the State Department of Property and Supplies at Harrisburg, shows the county will receive the surplus for the county home until Feb. 28, 1955, when another agreement must be negotiated.

Trucker Freed From Jail On $5,000 Bond

Charged with involuntary manslaughter, John H. Tuthill, 38, Paterson, N. J., was freed from county jail on $5,000 bond yesterday.

Mount Pocono troopers said he drove a tractor-trailer involved in an accident on Route 611 early Sunday which caused the death of a New Yorker and his mother.

They were William C. Seybold, 32, Freeport, N. Y., and Mrs. Madeline D. Sherwood, 59, same address. Both were crushed fatally when the tank-trailer rolled on top of their convertible.

Tuthill was unable to raise bail Sunday, and was committed to jail. Yesterday morning he completed arrangements with a bonding company and was released at 11:30 a.m.

Pedestrians Are People

You wouldn't always know it when crossing Main Street, but pedestrians also enjoy living.

So, it's a pleasure to report that it was safer for walkers in Pennsylvania last January than it was a year ago.

Reports of the State Bureau of Highway Safety show that 41 pedestrians lost encounters with motor vehicles in January, 1954, as compared to 55 in January, 1953.

If this welcome trend continues, the time may come when pedestrians can hope to live as long as drivers.

He Wants It Bad

There's a fresh and delightful breeze blowing this way from Alabama these days. It's especially soothing because Pennsylvania, too, has a political campaign coming up.

Seems that there's a fellow named Winston Gullate who wants to be Governor of Alabama.

Furthermore, he doesn't claim that there is a great upsurge of sentiment from the grass roots demanding that he make the sacrifice.

"Three friends urged me to run and two bitterly opposed it. That's a majority for me. I want to be Governor and I want it bad," reports Mr. Gullate.

Such a statement is a real upset in political science. Mr. Gullate's approach is novel, welcome and might interest the voters, too.

The Law Is At Fault

The doctors' draft law, which provides that qualified doctors and dentists inducted into the armed services under Selective Service rate officers' commissions and pay, seems to be the real basis for the charge that the Army has been "coddling Communists."

It is against public policy to commission Communists in the armed services, and it was while the Army was in the process of trying to separate an alleged Communist sympathizer from the service that Senator McCarthy got into the act.

This provision in the law is rank discrimination against other professions, and should be eliminated as the Defense Department has requested. Admittedly, the military has been rather stupid in handling this situation, but it is just as stupid to accuse the professional military group of Communist sympathies.

Congress must accept a large share of the blame for the current controversy, for it yielded to the importunities of the medical lobby in singling out that profession for special favors.

The first International Postal Congress was held in Bern, Switzerland, in 1874. Representatives of the United States, Egypt and 20 European countries attended.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

This is the week Washington puts on a "Truth or Consequences" program. Or, reasonable facsimile thereof. With a new quarter-back and backfield, the McCarthy Committee begins an inquiry into the troubles of the McCarthy Committee.

This is something like Dragnet Investigating Jack Webb. (Just the facts, ma'am, just the facts!)

Kingling Brothers have been consulted on whether the boys should work with or without a NET. With each side calling the other side "Liar!" this is an act in which somebody has GOT to FAIL. It is another proof we are in a cockeyed age when, in a time of world crisis involving the survival of civilization, America can give priority to a dispute over veracity between a couple of Army men and a 27-year-old boy wanderer with a quizzical mind. We wouldn't be surprised to get a bulletin announcing that the Navy had made landings on a House Committee and that the Air Force had just bombed David Schine and captured his father's Roney Plaza.

There are elements of a Martin & Lewis act in a solemn investigation to see whose word in Washington is any good. We have read both sides carefully and can't pick a winner. (What happens in case of a photo-finish?) Yes, we think it important to fight for truth, but this Washington battle to pick an All-American Baron Munchausen Team isn't a pretty picture. Boiled down the question is: "Do Americans in high places, as elsewhere, sometimes get excited under pressure, make cracks and disagree over who said what?" That question is faced daily by countless men and women in all walks of life. If every group involved put on an investigation it could make the Ananias Club the fastest growing body in the country.

Always in the mind of millions will linger the thought that there would never have been this Washington Suppertruth Hunt but for the McCarthy exposure of the promotion and honorable discharge of a dentist who refused to swear to his loyalty and took refuge behind the Fifth Amendment. (This fellow should find the Washington hearings highly entertaining. If his arm shakes when he laughs, he can have trouble doing a good filling job.) Somehow we have a hunch that all Washington realizes that, no matter which side wins, it will make a depressing scene, and hopes the showdown may never come. The preliminaries will take some time this week and there could be a lot of postponements. There are already rumors that Mr. Cohn may resign in a realization there are easier ways to make a living than serving as Target for Tonight, that David Schine may become immune to trouble by taking up dentistry and that Secretary Stevens may be sent to Indo-China for a special report on the Asiatic scene.

There are members of Joe McCarthy's committee who would like to get him, and have made no secret of it. But we can't see them making a national demonstration of their animosity. There is nothing a Senator is more careful about than making a bum out of another Senator. This could wind up as a deferred operation or as one of the most unpleasant spectacles ever unfolded to the eyes of an already distressed, baffled and confused public. We wish it would all turn out to be a nightmare due to spring fever and could all be cured by a dose of sulphur and molasses.

A New York lawbreaker proposes a curfew law for kids. This could do a lot of good, but not quite so much as a similar law on adults. Note to Robert Montgomery: Leave Ike's TV personality alone; he registers best when he is 100 per cent Eisenhower and in a situation where no Hollywood expert can touch him. The Garble Sisters who try to watch both of those TV "Morning Shows" say they think Walter Cronkaway and Dave Garrokkite are both good.

NOTHING SERIOUS
Only an eye-ful of Commies. . . . Let your alarm be quite tame! Should your town wind up in rubble. Only an eye-ful to blame! Merely an eye-ful of traitors. . . . Only a Klaus or a Hiss! Laugh it off gaily while strolling; No cause for worry in this!

ORPHANS OF THE STORM

Robert S. Allen Reports

Heavier Draft Calls Are Due To Be Started Soon

Washington — Those Pentagon hints about larger monthly draft quotas are a lot more serious than has been indicated.

The unannounced total for the coming year is 420,000.

That is 111,000 more inductions than the current year and will set a peacetime record. Total draftees scheduled for the 12-month period ending June 30 is 309,000.

Authority for this inside information is Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System.

The veteran draft administrator disclosed it at a private meeting with a House Appropriations subcommittee to explain why he is asking for a $1,600,000 increase in his budget. He wants $31,500,000 to take care of the additional demands of the armed services.

Hershey also caused considerable eyebrow raising among the subcommittee with the following startling figures:

During the Korean War, more youths were rejected than were drafted. Inductions totaled 1,600,000, while rejections exceeded 1,760,000.

Current rate of rejections is 42 per cent.

An estimated 686,000 will have to be summoned in order to obtain the 420,000 draftees required in the next fiscal year.

After these revelations, Brigadier General Louis Renfrow, deputy director, tossed in one of his own that precipitated sharp comment.

He charged some Southern draft boards are refusing to induct negroes.

What They Said — Representative John Phillips (R-Calif.), Subcommittee chairman, expressed astonishment at the need for more draftees.

"The Korean War is over," said Phillips, "and President Eisenhower has announced the ground forces are going to be reduced, and that from now on we will put greater emphasis on air and mechanical defenses. So why the demand for an increase in inductions?"

"If the ground forces were not being cut," replied Hershey, "it would be necessary to draft between 550,000 and 600,000 for military replacements in the coming fiscal year. It's only because ground forces are being reduced that we will only have to ask for 420,000 inductions. Whether that is right or wrong is not within my province, but the Air Force is confronted with a big problem of getting more manpower."

"How much are they increasing?" asked Phillips.

"Quite a bit," explained Hershey. "You see, to put it bluntly, the Korean War scared a lot of people into enlisting in order to avoid going into the ground troops. But the situation is different now and the Air Force has the double problem of getting more men at the same time replacing those getting out."

"It's startling," declared Phillips.

lips, "that in order to get 420,000 draftees, it is necessary to examine 686,000. It's my understanding that the initial rejection rate was 32 per cent."

General Renfrow declared the figure has risen to 42 per cent.

"Is it possible," asked Phillips, "that our requirements are too high? Do you know of any other nation that rejects such a large proportion of draftees?"

"No, I don't," replied Hershey. "Selective Service has nothing to do with the requirements. Those are fixed by the Defense Department and we have no say in the matter."

The Argument — Representative George W. Andrews (D-Ala.), stirred the sharp argument by charging the draft is a "poor man's law."

"If a boy's father was able to send him to college," contended Andrews, "he didn't run the risk of being sent to Korea. Those who can go to college don't have to go into the draft."

"I wouldn't say that," argued Hershey. "If we were going to be fair to everyone, we would take people of every age. Instead of merely those between 18½ and 26. This isn't a question of equity at all; it's a matter of getting the best that is available for the government."

It was at this point that General Renfrow raised the negro issue.

"Being from the South, Mr. Andrews, I'm surprised you haven't brought up the fact that the number of rejections in the Southern states is much higher than elsewhere," said Renfrow. "On this chart you can see that in some instances it runs 75 per cent higher. The reason is that some Southern draft boards are inducting only for one service, the Army, and obviously it can't take all the negroes. If the inducting was done across the board, then the negroes of the South would be going proportionately into the other services, which they are not now."

"Why not?" asked Andrews. "Well, take Alabama, your own State," declared Renfrow. "One of the big problems there is that white boys are being drafted and the negroes are not. We are trying our best to impress upon the Defense Department the absolute need for inducting across the board so that all the armed services will get a proportionate share of negroes. At one time, the Army had more than 14 per cent, but it's a little lower now."

George Sokolsky Says...

Pity That Eisenhower Does Not Use Witty Artistry Of Words He Possesses

When one goes to Washington for a day or two, there is no telling what might happen. You might get into a conversation on some momentous question and suddenly find yourself a sage, advising on how to solve every human question, or you might horseplay about men and events only to discover that someone keeps a running diary of men and events, including quotations of the latest gents room story.

So I went to the annual dinner of The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and listened to two witty addresses, light, delightful to the ear, sagacious in overtones, such as one rarely hears in these days of ponderous, monitored speeches, often written by press agents who provide their clients with deadly dull ditch water.

The most witty speech was made by Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was inducted as an honorary member of this Irish fraternity, he being the third President of the United States to be so honored, the others having been George Washington and Harry S. Truman. Why the Irish missed all the others, I do not know. They are a proud race.

I could not help thinking on this occasion that the President is really a great wit and that it is a pity that he does not use some of his artistry in words in the speeches he delivers to the American people. His public addresses seem heavy-laden; yet in the few words that he spoke at the St. Patrick's Day dinner, without a note, taking advantage of immediate incidents, his wit was in the best tradition of such men as Josh Billings, Mark Twain, or that most brilliant of American after-dinner speakers, Simeon Ford, who is now forgotten as happens to most men. Wit is disappearing from our way of life and its place is being taken by the wisecrack.

The speaker of the evening was not the President, who was expected to say little more than "Thank You," when they placed upon him a green ribbon with a golden medallion at the end. For the speech of the evening, the Irish had selected a McCarthy, not from Wisconsin but from Minnesota. There was an Irish tone about this man as he spoke poetically of his race of which the Irish never forget, be they of South or North. But what interested me most was something he read from an Irish Monk, Cadoc, which struck me as particularly befitting these times. This is what Representative Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota read:

"I hate the judge who loves money, the scribe who loves war, chiefs who do not guard their subjects, and nations without vigor."

"I hate houses without dwellers, lands untilled, fields that bear no harvest, landless clans, the agents of error, the oppressors of truth

"I hate him who respects not father and mother, those who make strife among friends, a country in anarchy, lost learning, and uncertain boundaries."

"I hate journeys without safety, families without virtue, law-suits without reason, ambushes and treasuries, falsehood in council, justice unhonored."

"I hate a man without a trade, a labourer without freedom, a society without teachers, a false witness before a judge, the undeserving exalted to high position."

"Fables in place of teaching, knowledge without inspiration, sermons without eloquence, and a man without a conscience."

This inverted song of hatred is an Irish way of saying what one loves, which is justice and order and a decent way of living. Not that the Irish have any monopoly on virtue, but it is a queer thing about them that they do possess a dignity of person, sober or otherwise which in these days of bad manners has a virtue all its own.

Well, there it is. I was invited to this St. Patrick's Day dinner by a Scotsman who is undoubtedly a Presbyterian, although I would not ask him so private a question.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

All sorts of theories have been expounded as to what Communism really is and why some apparently well-to-do people embrace it.

Why is it, people ask themselves, that those who apparently have everything have everything their hearts desire become Communists and try to tear down the very society which has made them what they are?

Why is it that they bite the very hands that feed them and try to destroy the one government that has given them complete freedom to enjoy the fruits of their labor?

Sociologists, economists, psychologists and many other learned "ists" have pondered the subject, written on it, lectured and speeched on it.

But, to most of us, Communism and its nature are still a great big question mark. To most of us it is a mystery.

I think the answer is quite simple. The inducement of Communism—at least in this country—seems to be some justified or unjustified inferiority complex.

The more educated, the wealthier, the more intelligent such a person becomes, the more he imagines that his fellow humans treat him as an inferior. The grounds for such belief may be entirely unjustified. But human beings being what they are, the fact exists that many a candidate for Communism feels himself inferior and thus develops a deep hatred of majorities.

Often the fault is not his own at all. He might suffer if we tend to judge a whole group by the resentments imagined by a few.

On the other hand, often one man, who thinks himself slighted by only one or a few of his fellow citizens, holds the whole American people or the entire Government responsible for what has happened to him and becomes a Communist.

Communism is envy, bred, as I said, by an enormous inferiority complex.

Mr. Henpeck was delayed by a wreck and arrived, trembling with fear, two hours later for an appointment at the lawyer's with his wife. Sure enough, she was apoplectic with rage when he shuffled in. "What do you mean by being two hours late, you worm?" she bellowed. "Here I've been waiting almost ten minutes for you already!"

"Dr. Seligman," protested an angry patient, "Didn't you tell me that eating tomatoes would cause my skin to break out?" "I did not," maintained Dr. Seligman. "I never make rash promises."

Jointure Ends On Let's Think Of Kids Note

—by J. Peter Olwyler

It was no fun watching at the wake the other night after Pleasant Valley Jointure turned into a dead pigeon while 50 people watched. R. Newton Davenport was presiding.

Clyde Dietrich did something that's pretty rare nowadays. He got up and talked off the cuff, eloquently and movingly. It was obvious that when he pleaded, "let's think of the children" he really meant it.

There was an uncomfortable silence after he sat down.

But finally Davenport made some remarks about reaching "impasses," and the directors went on to carve the jointure into bits.

It was all neat and according to Roberts' Rules of Order. But there are still a few informational windows to be opened before the air clears again around the West End.

Thomas P. Rogers of Hamilton claimed the figures on the application for State aid were incorrect. (Hamilton's allegedly shaky financial position was one reason the State turned down the request.)

It's incredible that such an important document as the application would be sent through with inaccurate figures. Rogers should be proved either wrong or right.

What caused the long, tedious, dawdling, foot-dragging and bickering while the site remained unchosen?

What's the irreconcilable dispute between the two factions of the joint board? It's never been openly put before the public.

The directors have acquired enough knowledge to arrive at complete disagreement. The public could hardly do worse.

Concert Dancers Achieve Success In First Concert Before Local Audience

By Leonard Randolph

Since ballet in any form is a rather esoteric art limited to some degree in its appeal, it seems plausible that specialized ballet invariably must be even more restricted in popularity. This, I'm afraid, was the case last night when the Ana Maria Spanish Ballet troupe came to town for a concert at State Teachers College auditorium.

Some members of the audience were disappointed because it wasn't as closely drawn to the classic ballet line as they'd thought it might be. Others may have felt the troupe lacked a little of that purity of passion which the name "Spanish" seems to conjure.

To my way of thinking, however, the appearance was a successful one despite technical flaws. The program was divided into three parts with a fairly equal nod toward the traditional, the classic and formalized ballet. Most ambitious undertaking on the concert was the full-length dance story, "El Amor Brujo" by Sierra with music by Manuel de Falla. This was also the most theatrically successful portion in which the star appeared. Ana Maria was especially fine during the emotional moments of the ritual dance of fire, but her effectiveness here was due more to emotive acting than to dancing.

By far the best moments in the concert were provided by four heel-happy gentlemen named Enrique, Ramon, Pepe and Luis Vargas. "Los 4 Vargas," as they're called in the program notes, do for Spanish dance what "Los Compagnons de Chanson" have done for French song. They were at their peak in a fierce, extemporaneous round robin of flamenco steps and "Bulerias." Enrique Vargas was given leading roles in three of the other dances and he was excellent. I thought. Frequently sloppy ensemble dancing marred some of these, however.

Musically the concert was on an even par throughout the evening.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The other day we had a stork shower without the guest of honor or since the stork arrived before the shower. And now we've a bridal shower without the bride—who is in Texas.

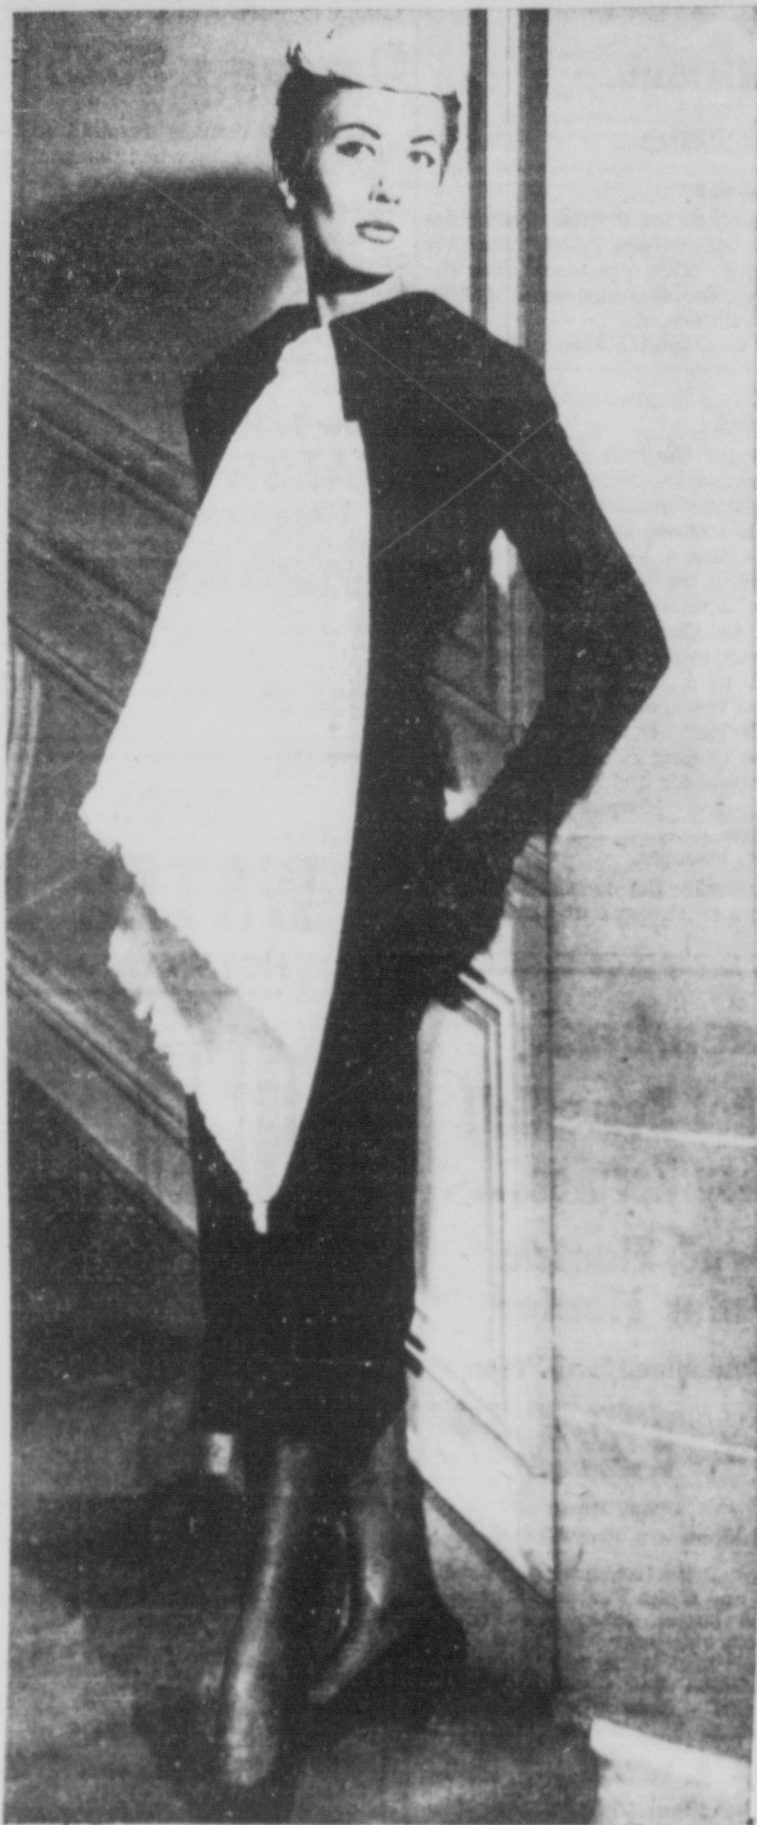

In the first case, the presents had already been wrapped up so the guests unwrapped them and ooh-ed and aah-ed over the baby booties and crib blankets to their hearts' content—but then were faced with the task of wrapping them all up again, and you never can get the creases in the same place.

The bridal shower guests, being forward, played it smart. They brought the gifts unwrapped and wrapped them at the party. Which was sort of fun and anyway it's always good to have a couple of extra fingers around to put on the knots.

And while we're on unusual parties, we might recall Connie Burrus' seventh birthday party when all her guests came wearing, by invitation, their mothers' hats, dresses and shoes. That's the age when you love to clump around in high heels anyway and to do it in company is that much more exciting.

And now with the Community Concert out of the way and no big meetings scheduled for this week might be a good time for the Red Cross canvassers to clean up their neighborhood. This 20 degree temperature of a morning has us all fooled into thinking that March will last forever but it won't. There's only nine more days and an awful lot of people you haven't seen yet.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Ironstone ware is like raw oysters. Either you relish it or think it horrid. If your taste runs to very delicate things, you probably regard it as clumsy and unimaginative. If you like colorful patterns and translucence, you no doubt consider it as awkward as a country boy at a Fifth Avenue debutant's ball. But I love it. I love Grandma's old sugar bowl filled with rambler roses or big purple iris, and find it perfectly at home chunkily embracing sweet-scented lavender lilacs.

Now I have fallen hard for a new shipment of reproductions to be found in our gift department . . . chubby, heavy coffee pots with clusters of colorful grapes; the cream and sugar sets embossed with big, grape leaves; and enormous turquoise with their very practical flat under-dish and matching ladle. Oh, I love eggshell china, delicate and fragile, for dress-up parties. But for hearty suppers and snappy-night snacks, give me ironstone . . . peasant cloths on rustic tables . . . and pioneer appetites. That's living!

When I read in yesterday's Record that from 9:30 to 1:30 today there will be a 25% markdown on all regular priced items in our gift department, I raced right down to purchase the shallow ironstone bowl that has long since been my special pet. I could just see it going out this morning and taking a bit of my dream with it. Now I have it, all wrapped up on my desk, and with a claim check that makes it wholly mine. It's decorated with only one huge cluster of grapes—which reminds me that quite unwittingly one can fall under the spell of some specific pattern.

Months ago at an auction I purchased an antique candelabra with a design of grape leaves. Later, I found the perfect mirror downstairs in our electric shop, framed in mahogany with clusters of grapes matted here and there. Then came a milk glass pitcher—also with grape trim, and now the ironstone bowl. The same carved grapes, I'm suddenly aware, decorate the back of my occasional chair. Before long I'll own more grapes than a winery, but that's all right. If it hadn't been grapes it would undoubtedly have been moss roses. And where do YOUR fancies lead?

If I were a customer and was getting 25% discount in our gift department today, I'd surely look twice at the stunning crystal dishes, candelabras, and accessories so beautifully traced in silver—good pieces that look every cent of their value. I'd give a second glance to our tea tables too, some of plain wrought iron, others of wrought iron trimmed with brass. Perfect for the patio, the living room, or the dining room—wherever a friendly snack is going to be served . . . If I entertained a great deal and enjoyed being distinctive and first with new things, I'd concentrate on the unusual two-tier and three tier trays of wood or china, and the carved, painted wooden lady from Denmark who is all dressed up only when paper napkins are tucked into her skirt . . . I'd look into such important accessories as pretty tea pots, demitasse cups, hand painted trays, lazy susans, and unusual accessories in brass . . . The mention of lazy susans reminds me that Mary Hosier, our knitting instructor, has an entirely new and practical use for hers. She rests her game of Scrabble on it when the family is playing, and turns it with each play so the player has a perfect view. In the case of Scrabble, "turn about is fair play" . . . and if I enjoyed house plants, today's 25% discount would draw me to the tables displaying the graceful, daintily colored planters and jardinières from Italy, and the more exotically colored jardinières from Spain. With that discount, I'd have at least three or four beautiful accessories for a home that needs, as most homes do, a spring face-lifting.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Tannersville cleared a few cents less than $100 on the baseball team's Ham and Egg supper at the Pocono Township Fire House on Saturday night. The club will use this money to help defray the cost of operation in the Pocono Mountains League during the coming campaign. Don Manning, former basketball star at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and now court coach at Montrose High, became the father of twins last week. This makes at least three children in the Manning household at the present time.

The failure of I. B. Miller Builders, a Monroe County basketball team, to show up for its scheduled game in the Oxford Lions Club Invitational Tournament last Saturday made the tournament committee most unhappy. The committee had to pay out $15 for a game that wasn't played and The Daily Record was presented with a forfeit victory. According to reports reaching this column Miller's club was unable to obtain enough players to make the trip.

Although Hawley High has won the Hawley-Lake Wallenpaupack basketball tournament 10 times more than any other club in history, Greene-Dreher-Sterling's mark of five straight championships still stands as a tournament record. Hawley has two different three-championship streaks to its credit. Dave "Doc" Schiavone, veteran pitcher, is reportedly the only candidate for the Roseto managerial post, although several more applications are expected before Thursday. The Blue Mountain League club is expected to name its new field general at Thursday night's meeting.

John Butler, former Bethlehem High football coach who was named recently to tutor the Penn freshmen next season, is attempting to line up several highly regarded Lehigh Valley grid stars for the Red and Blue yearling squad. Joe Foran, who dropped out of the active coaching ranks after directing the Palmerton football squad to an unbeaten season in 1951, will handle the Palmerton junior varsity basketball squad next season. Foran coached at Whitehall and Somerville, N. J., before moving to Palmerton. Joe took over the varsity cage machine for the 1951-1952 campaign after head coach Bill Wilhelm retired as basketball mentor, winning 12 and losing nine games.

Foran's unbeaten Palmerton football squad is the only one in the history of the school to maintain such a record. Palmerton reportedly wants to build a stronger pre-Lehigh Valley League basketball schedule next season. It has been brought to this column's attention that the Blue Bombers have added Weatherly, of the Mountain League, to the pre-season slate next December. Mauch Chunk, the quintet that eliminated Barrett from the class "C" District 11 playoffs and then lost to Coplay, was second in scoring statistics in the Mountain League during the recent campaign.

Mauch Chunk scored 646 points against circuit opposition, to rate behind White Haven's 745 total. The Chunks gave up 616 points in a contest, as compared to 538 by White Haven. Mauch Chunk averaged 64.6 tallies a game, while the opposition came up with 61.6 markers each contest. The Mauch Chunk pupils of Coach Oscar "Ossie" Maucher were tops in foul shooting in the circuit, making good on 156 of 273 tries for a .571 tabulation. Lamar Cadden, was the club's top scorer and seventh in the league with 155 points.

Dick McGinley was second on the team and eighth in the league with a 149 tabulation. Myron O'Neill, towering Mauch Chunk center, was 13th in the league's scoring list with 115 tallies. Leon Haak rounded out Mauch Chunk players among the top 15 point producers in the circuit by nailing down the number 14 spot with 112 points. Joe Snisky, St. Clair star who played so well against Slatington in the District 11 class "A" final, led the North Schuylkill League in scoring with 358 points in 16 circuit outings. Slatington defeated St. Clair, 76-73 in overtime, to gain the District 11 crown.

Catasauqua High's girls' basketball team won six and lost five games during the season recently completed. Ron Mrozinski, southpaw pitcher, and Stan Pals, hard hitting outfielder, have been optioned by the Philadelphia Phillies to Syracuse, of the class "AAA" International League, for the coming campaign. Mrozinski, a resident of White Haven, and Pals received their start in pro baseball with Carbondale, of the now defunct class "D" North Atlantic League. Both will be well remembered by Stroudsburg fans.

Art George, lanky Palmerton High forward, paced the Palmerton VFW Redwings to a 102-70 victory over Sam's Caterers, of Hazleton, in the opening round of the Freeland YMCA basketball tournament. George, who paced Palmerton to the second half title in the Lehigh Valley League, scored 29 of the winning points in the initial Freeland encounter this season for the Redwings.

Poconos, Cut Rate Reach Final Round Of Gold Medal

Typewriter, Misfits Bow From Tourney

Poconos and City Cut Rate fought their way into the final round of the Gold Medal Basketball Tournament at Stroudsburg High last night, with decisions over Stroudsburg Typewriter and Misfits A. C. respectively.

The Poconos, playing the slow, deliberate style they have made famous in this tournament, rolled to a convincing 87-65 verdict over the Typewriter contingent, while City Cut Rate rode Ray Kaseman to victory over the Misfits, 70-67.

Paul "Muff" Warnick came up with one of his most brilliant performances while leading the Poconos to victory. The veteran guard completely baffled the Typewriter five with his long set shots in the first half, as the Poconos vaulted into a 39-27 lead at halftime.

Warnick scored 17 of his 24 points in the first and second periods.

The Typewriter crew fought back into contention in the third quarter, but the Poconos broke the game wide open with a 30-17 edge in the final stanza.

Second Battle
Kaseman paced City Cut Rate to a strong second half after the Misfits held a slim 28-26 advantage at the halfway mark.

Nick Gatto and Warren Hoefler, each with 14 counters, chipped in to give the Cut Rate an 18-14 edge in the third quarter and a winning 26-25 show in the last period.

The Misfits held a 26-24 advantage in field goals, but the Cut Rate contingent made good on 22 of 33 foul shots, while the Misfits hit on only 15 of 25 attempts from the foul line.

Final round action will probably take place on Wednesday, on the same Stroudsburg High court.

Rio Grande Leaves Court

Kansas City (AP) — Rockhurst College of Kansas City beat "Bevo" Francis and Rio Grande (Ohio) College 56-50 in a basketball game here last night as the losers' coach, Newt Oliver, called his team off the court with a little less than two minutes left in protest against the officiating.

Officials Dick Glennon and Charles James, both of Kansas City, each assessed technical fouls against Oliver in the closing minutes after the Rio Grande coach had stormed on the court to protest calls when the game still was nip and tuck.

Preliminary
The game, played as a preliminary to the third annual East-West all-star contest, attracted a near-capacity house of 9,500.

Francis, Rio Grande's famous point-maker was limited to 22 points for the abbreviated contest, well under his season average of more than 48 points per outing.

Rio Grande led 17-10 at the quarter, 28-27 at the half and was ahead by one point, 40-39, at the last turn. The score was tied twice in the final period before the ruckus developed.

Gernert Paces Red Sox
Bradenton, Fla. (AP) — Dick Gernert blasted home runs his first and last times at bat yesterday to give the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves in a Grapefruit League game.

HEADS UP—All eyes turn toward the basket as Henry "Hank" Stetler tosses the ball in the direction of scoring territory early in last night's Gold Medal basketball game with Stroudsburg Typewriter. Al Adelmann, left, and Tom Phillips, right, both wearing light colored shirts, are the other Poconos shown in action. Bob Miller, Don Deibler, Frank Stull (11), and Jack Newell (10), represent Stroudsburg Typewriter in the play.

Basketball's Controversial Free-Throw Rule Changed To Put Emphasis On Good Shooting

By Skipper Patrick
Kansas City (AP) — Basketball's controversial one-and-one free throw rule was rewritten yesterday to place a premium on good shooting and at the same time make it tougher on the offender.

The new free throw rule, adopted by the National Basketball Committee gives a second free throw after each successful free shot on all common personal fouls for the first 37 minutes of the game. If the first toss is missed the ball is in play.

Two free throws in the last three minutes, same as last season, still go. A common foul is one committed while the player fouled is not in the act of shooting.

The new rule is in direct contrast to free throw regulations of the last two years that provided for a second shot if the first was missed up to the last three minutes.

Bruce Drake of Oklahoma, chairman of the committee, said his group was confident the free throw change and another adopted measure—returning the game to halves instead of quarters—would improve the sport for both players and spectators.

The halves will apply only to college games, which are for 40 minutes. AAU, high school and other contests of less than 40 minutes will continue the quarter system.

The four-quarter timing was installed in the 1951-52 season in an attempt to give players a break from the torrid pace of the run and shoot game. By reverting to the two halves, officials said, there'll be just half as much stalling in late minutes of the periods.

The National Coaches Association had asked the rules committee to put the bonus throw in effect for the full 40 minutes.

Brown-Lynch, Portland Win In Oxford Basketball Tourney
Oxford, N. J.—Brown-Lynch American Legion Post, of Easton, and Portland emerged victorious in first round action in the Oxford Lions Club Invitational Basketball Tournament last night, here on the Center School court.

The Easton contingent had no trouble with Blairstown, rolling to a 90-57 victory in the first half of the doubleheader. Portland finished in professional style to score a thrilling 81-79 decision over the Normal Hill Marauders in the nightcap.

Command
Brown-Lynch was in command from start to finish in the first game, rolling up 37 field goals to 18 for Blairstown. The winning club made good on 16 of 41 foul shots, while Blairstown converted 21 of 42 attempts from the foul line.

Bill Pensyl, East Stroudsburg High cage star, led Portland to victory in the nightcap with 37 points. The Portland resident accounted for 16 field goals and five foul conversions to pace the attack. Portland held a 29-17 advantage in the last period to insure victory.

Portland and Normal Hill each made good on 13 of 25 foul shots, while the winning club held a 34-33 advantage in field goals.

Pen Argyl and The Daily Record clash in the first quarter-final game at 7 p. m. today, while Newton and Brown-Lynch match action at 8:30 p. m. Pen Argyl is the defending champion in the tournament.

Gray's Quintet Wins Title In Mountain Play

Pocono Pines—Gray's Chevrolet used a strong beginning to take the measure of Williams' Pharmacy, 77-61, and win the Pocono Mountains Basketball League Tournament championship last night before a crowd of approximately 300 people.

West End rode the wings of Harry Possinger's 41 points to a 98-89 verdict over Johnson's Diner to capture the tournament third place in the preliminary tussle. Both games were played on the Tobyhanna Township High school court.

Gray's club, by winning, added the tournament title to the regular season crown it won earlier this month.

Big Advantage
The championship contingent rolled into a 15-6 advantage at the end of the first period and Williams' Pharmacy was never able to make up for its slow start.

Gray's club held a 37-19 edge at halftime and made certain of victory with a 21-19 showing during the last 10 minutes.

Williams' quintet had the better of the third stanza, 23-19, but was never able to seriously threaten the Chevrolet entry.

John Parks and Lyle Krall paced Gray's offense with 23 and 21 points respectively, while Jim "Cockey" Wilson's 20 markers were tops for the Pharmacy five. Gray's quintet made good on 17 of 26 foul shots, while Williams' converted 15 of 23 charity tosses.

The preliminary tussle turned out to be an individual scoring duel between Possinger and Johnson's Clair Bloss, with Possinger winding up on the long end of a 41-56 count. Bloss held a 16-14 advantage in field goals, but Possinger sported a wide 13-4 edge in the foul shooting department.

A total of 34 points in the final period wasn't enough to enable Johnson's club to make up its early deficit.

West End converted 18 of 39 foul shots, while Johnson's cagers found the range on 11 of 22 charity tosses.

Temple Wins Championship In Barrett Midget Cage League

Canadensis—Temple made certain of the Barrett Lions Midget Basketball League championship last night with a 16-4 victory over Penn, in the second of two games played here on the Barrett High court. The circuit has only one more date remaining on the schedule.

Lehigh doubled the score to take the measure of Pitt in the first half of last night's bargain attraction, 14-7.

Mark
By winning Temple ran its season's mark to six victories and one defeat, while the nearest foe has suffered four setbacks.

Temple had no trouble with Penn last night, building a 10-2 lead at the halfway mark and coasting the remainder of the distance.

Next Monday's schedule will pit Temple against Lehigh at 7 p. m., while Pitt faces Penn at 7:45 p. m.

Rosters
Each team will be allowed 15 players on the roster, with no more than two members of each club being students at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Rosters must also be submitted to the league by April 19.

Most games will be played in the form of two-night doubleheaders at Gordon Giffels field this season. The opening game of each doubleheader will be a twilight affair, while the nightcap will be played under the lights.

The circuit also plans to hold a Tag Day in July.

Another league meeting will be held at the Eagles next Monday, at 7:30 p. m.

Zulueta Gains Nod Over Brady
Brooklyn (AP) — Orlando Zulueta of Cuba, second ranking lightweight in the latest ratings, had to come from behind last night to gain a unanimous, though unopposed, decision over Dennis "Pat" Brady of New York in a 10-round bout at Eastern Parkway Arena. Zulueta weighed 137½, Brady 137½.

Hard Pressed
Zulueta, who has won two out of three fights with champion Paddy DeMarco, was hard put to stop the crowding, aggressive tactics of his lesser known opponent.

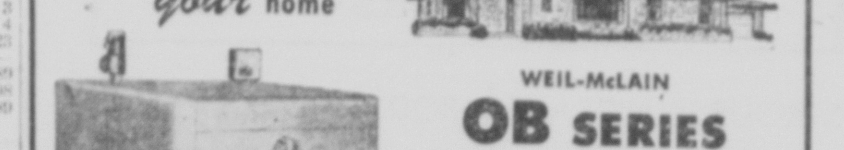

Yankees Drub A's, 12-6
West Palm Beach, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees knocked out lefthander Alex Kellner in the fifth inning and went on to drub the Philadelphia Athletics 12-6 yesterday.

If Crowe's Insurance should win its second Delaware Valley League bowling crown this season, the East Stroudsburg keggers can be safely compared to the New York Yankees of baseball fame. The Yankees are famous for coming through when the chips are down and Saturday's showing by Captain Jake Nittel and company falls directly into that category. Instead of being hopelessly out of the running, Crowe's keggers are right back in the thick of the fight.

Crowe's club was a deadlocked with Norton's Oil for second place in the standings and three points behind Pat's Kiddie Shop prior to last Saturday's firing. Crowe's keggers swept four points from the Kiddie Shop at Harmon's Recreation and instead of being three points off the pace, the home team enjoyed a one-game lead. Nittel, who has been unable to hit in his customary way of late, paced his team to victory with a 636 match on games of 211, 220 and 205.

The remainder of the club caught fire and walked past Pat's contingent in the standings. It was only the third time this season that Crowe's club had swept all four points on its home alleys, but the East Stroudsburg keggers have won 15 of 16 points against Pat's Kiddie Shop. Norton Oil, Fleas Club and Bethlehem Central Bowling Academy remain on Crowe's schedule, with the Fleas being the only one on foreign alleys. Chet Williams, the high average member of the Kiddie Shop contingent, was low man for both teams last Saturday.

Crowe's club took no chances on Saturday night, side stepping all pre-match issues that might have turned out to be bad luck. Bangor TV, an entry in the East Penn Classic League, has pulled into fifth place in the standings with 22 wins and 18 defeats. Bangor has an average of 992.35 per game for the second half of the campaign. Bob Schultz rolled a 236 single and a 679 match for Bangor last week.

Ralph "Red" Seifert, Washington, N. J., rolled a thrilling 299 game and a sparkling 757 match for the Burd Realtor entry in the Bi-State League, at the State Belt Bowling Center, last Friday night. Seifert came up with his fine showing against Pritchard's Clothing. Ralph rolled 11 straight strikes in the opening game, but on the 12th attempt left the number 10 pin standing. The pin wiggled, shook, rocked and did everything but tumble over, as Seifert's hopes of a perfect game were dashed.

In the other two games, Seifert rolled 228 and 230, as his team hit a 3217 match for a season high, on games of 1070, 1060 and 1087. Seifert's 299 ties an all-time high for American Bowling Congress sanctioned rolling on the Bangor alleys. The last such display was given by Howard Heller in 1945. Arch Daily, proprietor of the State Belt Bowling Center, rolled a 299 in 1941, but not in ABC sanctioned action. Five perfect games, four by Daily and one by Ray Lemley, Wind Gap, rolled at the State Belt Center weren't in sanctioned play.

In the State Belt class "A" Men's League, Earl Bray, rolling for the American Legion, and his teammates walked off with all the weekly honors. Bray rolled 246-687 for the single and triple game highs. The Legion entry rolled 995-2693 for the team highs. Only change in the standings last week resulted when Ronco's Nash took over second place, dropping Flory Milling to third place. Ronco's swept four points from Goddard's Sheet Metal and Flory's lost three points to Star Dolly.

Tenth Annual Missionary Conference Of Baptists Opens Wednesday Night

The tenth annual Missionary Conference of the First Baptist Church of East Stroudsburg will be observed from Wednesday through Sunday, March 24 to 28.

Several missionaries from widely scattered areas will participate. In addition to the message there will be a sound color film report from fields in the Orient, South America and the Mediterranean.

A highlight of the conference is planned for Thursday night when the church's Missionary to Bolivia, Miss Lydia Anderson, will receive her personal outfit for the fifth term of service beginning at mid-summer this year.

During the ten years in which Missionary Conferences have been held the missionary giving of the church and school has shown a remarkable increase from $1,230 in 1944 to a figure substantially in excess of $4,200 in the current fiscal year.

The schedule of services follows:

Wednesday night, Rev. Roger Howes of the China Inland Mission. Thursday, "The Call of the Southern Cross," a film report of the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, and the Church Missionary Fellowship, Miss Anderson as guest of honor.

Friday, "The Flower of Tibet," depicting Loper Work in the Orient. Loper work is a special project of the Sunday School.

Saturday, 8 p. m., The Youth for Christ Fellowship, Rev. Spiros Zodiates, general secretary of The American Mission to Greece.

Sunday, Rev. Edward C. Bomb, of the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism and Miss Lydia Anderson of Bolivia Indian Mission.

The public is cordially invited to join us in this conference.

Memorial Funeral For Easton

Memorial funeral service for the late Philip R. Easton, of 721 Ann St., Stroudsburg, who died March 9 in Englewood, Fla., will be held in the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg on Saturday, April 3, at 2 p. m.

Rev. William B. Easton, Jr., a brother, and director of religious education at Park College, Parkville, Missouri, is writing the service, and he and Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, pastor of the Stroudsburg church, will officiate. Vernon C. Imb, organist, will play a number of Mr. Easton's favorite hymns.

Interment will be made in the family plot in the Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Philip R. Easton was born September 17, 1901, in Tobyhanna, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. George Rhoads. In 1911 he was adopted by his aunt, the late Mrs. W. E. Easton, of Thomas St., Stroudsburg, where he grew up.

For a number of years after completing his formal education he was engaged in the lumber industry in the Northwest, where he married the former Marjorie Mansfield. They returned to Stroudsburg where he founded the General Flooring Co., Bank Alley, Stroudsburg. Mr. Easton served two and a half years in World War II. He retired from active service with the company in 1950 because of ill health, although he remained associated with it and was a director of the International Boiler Works. He was a member of the Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by his wife; his brothers, Dr. Alfred Rhoads, of Tobyhanna, George Rhoads of Oakland, Cal., Rev. William B. Easton, Jr., of Parkville, Mo.; and by a sister, Mrs. C. T. Willis of East Orange, N. J.

Dunkelberger and Westbrook are in charge of local funeral arrangements.

Short Circuit Causes Fire

The electrical blaze was confined to the cab of the vehicle, parked alongside the highway near the present resort association information booth.

Chestnuthill Farmers Sign For Testing

Brodheadsville—Over 90 per cent of Chestnuthill Township farmers who own cattle has signed up for testing of brucellosis, according to Arthur E. Ifft, Monroe County agriculture agent.

Working with Ifft in the organization and education work are Paul Everett, chairman, Asher Switzgabel, Walter Anglemeyer, Arthur Switzgabel, Walter Gould, Willard Fehr, Horace Saxe, Clyde Dietrich, Charles Serfass and Ira F. Altomese.

Ifft said he has been informed by the Bureau of Animal Industry at Harrisburg that the township will be tested as soon as possible.

Area testing already has been completed in Pocono, Jackson and Eldred Townships. Polk Township currently is undergoing the test and Ross Township is about two-thirds signed up, Ifft said.

Other townships can secure the service by establishing committees and securing 90 per cent or more of the cattle owners in their township.

Barrett 'Y' Activities On Increase

Youth Activities of the YMCA in Barrett Township have involved about 65 boys and girls during the past week.

Last Monday night the Barrett Tri Hi-Y and the Hi-Y held an informal square dance at the high school. Refreshments were served by the girls group headed by Mrs. Paul Miller.

Tuesday afternoon the Gra-Y club journeyed to the local fish hatchery and learned about the raising of trout.

Saturday the Boys of the Hi-Y conducted a very successful scrap metal drive as a service to the community. The profits of the drive will go to their treasury for other service work.

Saturday night the girls of the Tri Hi-Y visited the Bethlehem YMCA for a social swim period. Later they looked in at the large dance program sponsored by the Bethlehem Y.
